Sweet Dreams, baby

THE STORY OF MY "JOHNNIE" BLANKIES...

When my girls were born, their "best friend" became their blankie. Their blankies brought so much comfort each time they laid their little heads down and heard my words "sweet dreams baby," echo in their ears. And when I couldn't be there, their blankie took my place.

So, when their little brother was to be born, we all knew how important his "blankie" would be. He was the center of our prayers for years before he was created, and became the center of our lives as we watched him grow within my belly. We couldn't wait to hold our little "angel" in our arms.

Yet, God had other plans for our little "Johnnie"... he came into our world as quietly as he left. His home was not to be with us... it was to be with God in Heaven. All I had left to hold in my arms when they gently carried him away, was my "Johnnie's" blankie left behind. In the quiet times of grief and sorrow, that precious blankie brought me so much peace and comfort.

I hope my "Johnnie" blankies bring you the same joy... made with so much love, and remember to always...

A native of Southern California, Dee was raised with art, threads and yarns all around her. She started embroidering at the age of 4, and with the influence of her father - the fine artist, her mother - the business teacher and both of her grandmothers, the love of art, fabrics and design began . . . this led her into the romantic world of fashion design and historical costuming. You will see all of these influences in whatever she creates.

However, it took the loss of her newborn son to truly realize her calling. She started making her original "Johnnie Blankie" in memory of her little Johnnie in heaven, and with a dream to reach out to those in need of a loving touch . . . hence, the business began.

Every design comes from Dee's heart and desire to bring a little warmth, beauty and romance into everyone's life.
